Join the frontier of energy innovation. In a range of career paths, you'll gain real experience on-site while using your expertise to deliver leading tech solutions.

As a Field Engineer, you will be involved in every part of our business. From acquiring essential data to planning long-term well development, you will organize, run, and report operations in the field environment and assist Specialists and other Engineers with key decisions. Your training will be hands-on as you learn about the energy industry and become an expert in the various tools and services in your business line. With the help of management and a comprehensive development program, you will be given responsibility and support to make your impact and start becoming a leader in our business.

Our Field Specialists focus on the vital technical and operational procedures that ensure our sites are safe and our customers get exceptional service. You will receive intensive instruction in troubleshooting, safety, and client interaction to develop a deep technical understanding of what we do. Through a combination of hands-on learning and formal training, you will become the company's representative on-site, with supervisory responsibility, working through a range of complex, practical challenges and developing innovative strategies to solve them.

As a Field Technical Analyst, you will provide technical expertise to teams across the site and use your knowledge to help them deliver exceptional service. Using a variety of tools and techniques, you will apply your theoretical understanding to the practical challenges we face on-site every day. This includes creating formation evaluation logs and helping to analyze and interpret cuttings to determine rock type and hydrocarbon presence. You will also help monitor the well parameters and maintain sensors to understand well conditions. An extensive development program will expand your technical knowledge and hands-on skillset.
