An internship is your opportunity to understand how we work and whether our culture is right for you. It's also your chance to show us that you have the right skills and attitude to succeed here. Our internships are paid positions, and last between a few months to a whole year—offering opportunities to use what you've learned at university on real projects.

Our Operations internships are the best way to understand whether life in the field is for you. We often work in challenging locations where extreme weather and intense pressure are common. It's demanding, but if you have a sense of adventure and are willing to work hard while getting your hands dirty, it's a unique and fulfilling opportunity. You'll work on live projects on active sites and be exposed to the challenges we face every day.

We offer two different internships in Operations. If you're applying for a Field Engineer internship, you must have completed your second year of an undergraduate degree in engineering or a relevant science. If you're applying for a Field Specialist internship, you must be working towards a two-year technical diploma or associate degree.
